How To Get a Full Set Of Upper and Lower Teeth In One Day Without Wearing Those Dentures That You Have To Take Off Every Night

If you talk to anyone that has ever considered wearing dentures or are currently wearing them, they likely have no clue about what I'm about to share with you.

In fact, it's quite life changing...

It's unfortunate that more people don't know this and instead fall prey to wearing those uncomfortable arches of acrylic, or plastic for their entire lives!

If you're reading this, it will help you understand your options and see WHY this solution could be a life changer for you.

Let's take a very common scenario:

1. Your dentist tells you that you have to remove all your teeth and get "removable dentures" that will look pretty real. Let's assume- YES- you do have to remove/extract your teeth for all the reasons they gave you.

Here are some BIG issues with this process:

When you get your teeth out, you're not going to walk around without any teeth, so they tell you to get "immediate dentures", which means that you would get these removable dentures "immediately" after your extraction appointment.

Now- this may sound nice... But-

These immediate, or temporary dentures are VERY uncomfortable since they are just sitting on your gum tissue after your gums have been bruised up from the extractions.

Imagine that, not only are you sore from the extractions, BUT you're also getting used to these NEW prosthetics in your mouth that you've never had. Then later you'll get another more permanent denture to supposedly fits better after 3 months or so.

This is a recipe for discomfort, frustration, and pain.

Here's another scenario:

2. Your dentist tells you that you need to get your teeth out, but recommends to keep a few that may last you a while, BUT a majority of them will have to come out immediately.

Here are some problems with this:

1. You'll still wear a partial denture that sits on your gums and you have to take it out every night. And when you do lose one of your other teeth, the lab has to "add teeth" to your existing denture... at best, if they even can. This essentially creates a situation that results in "patchwork" dentistry, where teeth are added as they are needed, but nothing is precision fit and you're just adding to something that's not that comfortable in the first place.

This is a tough situation as well!

Now, I know there are many scenarios that can occur here, but I think you get the point.

Which is, MOST regular dentures have some real issues:

- they are super uncomfortable
- not customizable
- don't really anchor or sit on your gums that well
- get food caught underneath so you can't eat many foods with them
- have to be taken out at night when you sleep
- get looser as you wear them, since the bone underneath them gradually resorbs.
- really don't look like the smile you truly wanted
- get looser with time and risk flopping out when you are talking

I could go on and on... I think you get it!

So what's a real solution?

The All On 4 Procedure:

Very basically explained, we would place 4 implants on your upper arch and then make a strip of teeth that would get anchored to those implants that STAYS in your mouth without you having to remove them.

Here's a simple picture of it:

Now remember, bone does NOT have any nerve endings, so implants don't cause you to feel pain in the bone.

See... I know what you were thinking when you saw that little picture up there. :-)

Here are just some of the big benefits to this procedure:

Bone Preservation- In fact, they preserve your bone since when placed, your body NOW feels that there is something in the bone that's stimulates the bone so it doesn't resorb or shrink- that's a big deal. You don't lose bone as you age since the implants are preserving that bone much more than if there was not anything in that area.

Fixed Teeth- the strip of teeth that is placed in there gets anchored to the implants and gets screwed in. Simple. You don't have to remove it. It stays in.

THIS IS A BIG DEAL

Of all the things about this procedure that is the most beneficial- THIS is the biggest one. Fixed teeth, just like they were meant to be.

Now we can remove it at the office if we want to, but usually there isn't a need for it.

And, here's the next one...

It doesn't cover your entire upper palate or even all your gums on the lower arch either!
So, really it's a STRIP of TEETH. Not a big prosthesis that feels weird in your mouth.

This is what a strip of teeth looks like- totally different, right?

Also, this procedure works even if you've been told that implants are not for you since you don't have "enough bone."

Why?

Since we place the implants in different areas in your jaw as compared to single tooth implants. This also allows us more access to the bone we need in the position we need it.

What I'm really trying to say is that this procedure does well even if you think that you don't have enough bone and that's what your dentist told you.

Most dentists are not trained with this type technique- I am, and my team is.

Now- what about that scenario of removing all your teeth in one sitting and then getting teeth "immediately?"

Well, the All on 4 Procedure accommodates that since it's a ONE VISIT technique.

If you need teeth extracted, we do that first, then place the implants and then fasten the temporary strip of teeth to the implants that same day. You'll get the permanent form a few months later, but this temporary strip works just like the permanent ones- AND STAYS IN PLACE.

All of this is done in one sitting.

And you leave with a set of FIXED teeth that same day, that you don't have to remove at all.

Then after that, there's follow up appointments which we can review when you come in.

Hope that you can give yourself the option of at least having a chance at seeing if you are a candidate for this procedure.
